11 Architect-Designed Furniture and Lighting Pieces Displayed at the 2021 Salone del Mobile

After a year-long absence, Milan Design Week has wrapped up yet another year of creativity and innovation. From the 5th to the 10th of September, thousands of design companies displayed their creations to more than 200,000 visitors hailing from different countries, demographics, and industries. And while the design fair gravitated towards the world of interior design, many renowned architects such as Bjarke Ingels, Foster + Partners, and Herzon & de Meuron participated in the week-long exhibition and joined forces with interior and furniture design brands to create signature pieces.

UNStudio / Ben van Berkel

Node+ and Soliscape

Ben van Berkel / UNStudio showcased two new versatile product designs created by their in-house user experience think tank UNSx titled Node+ and Soliscape. Italian furniture brand LaCividina collaborated with UNSx to create the Node+, an adaptable furniture system that responds to users' everchanging physical and spatial needs. Following the approach of adapting to users' needs, Soliscape was designed in collaboration with Delta Light, and is a toolbox of flexible lighting and acoustic components that respond to users' daily activities.
